R. C. BLACK,

35 WHITEHALL ST.

Augusta, Ga., October 7.—(Special.)—The democrats of Richmond county and of the congressional district are not at all discouraged over the result of the state election, but, to the contrary, are encouraged, and the confidence of "Congressman Black's re-election over Watson is increased.

The district going for the populists in the gubernatorial election was nothing more than was expected, and what has furnished ground for hope for success in November is the result. The populist majority in the district was only 30, which can easily be overcome. Richmond county last Wednesday was handicapped by the registration law, and, in consequence of that fact, only polled 4,180 votes, while there were over 10,000 in the county. There will be no registration of the voters for the November election and the full vote of the county will be cast. The district will be given so great a majority that it cannot be overcome by the populist vote in the other counties.

In the state election the populists exerted themselves and polled their full strength and there will be no material change in their vote in the congressional election.

Besides Richmond, Hancock and Wilkings are being put down in major Black's district, and the campaign is being waged. Major Black's friends and supporters have thoroughly organized and are already getting down to the work. Boykin Wright, who so successfully general the campaign two years ago, will again be chairman of the campaign club, and he is thoroughly interested in the work before him.

The big slump in the democratic majority in the state election has awakened the democrats and has proven to be a incentive which has stirred the people and caused them to take interest in the fight and support and promote the cause of democracy. There is no party among the people here. They are all united and greatly enthused and will triumph in their purpose.

Major Black is going to stomp the district thoroughly, and he will speak at the Sandersville and Crawfordville appointments with Senator Walsh, and at the latter place on the 10th and at the latter place on the 10th.

TRAN'S TUMBLE

The A. & W. P. Train Drops Off a Trestle
Just Beyond West Point.

ATLANTA PEOPLE IN THE WRECK

The Train Left Atlanta Yesterday Morning at 5:30 O'clock, in Charge of Engineer Brown and Conductor Dunlap.

Passenger train No. 35, of the Atlanta and West Point road, which left Atlanta at 5 o'clock yesterday morning, tumbled from the high trestle over Osnapapa creek, a few miles beyond West Point, and seven persons were badly injured.

News of the accident was immediately telegraphed to this city, and before 11 o'clock yesterday morning a special train was sent to the scene of the wreck with Dr. Hunter P. Cooper and four surgeons from Atlanta.

The wrecking train at once set to work to clear the track, which was not completed until just before 11 o'clock last night.

None of the persons on the train were killed outright, but one or two may die. The injured are:

R. J. VAUGHAN, conductor on a construction train, who was a passenger on the train, badly cut and bruised.

W. B. KENNAN, a Charlotte drummer, cut over left eye and leg hurt.

C. CUNNINGHAM, an Orleans, hip hurt, and right hand injured.

UNKNOWN WHITE MAN, who cannot tell who he is, fatally injured.

Several others were more or less hurt.

It was reported in the city last night that Mr. Hull Ware, of East Point, who is well known in Atlanta, was not hurt in the wreck. This could not be verified.

The accident caused great delay in Atlanta in the movement of the trains of the West Point road and connections. The New York and New Orleans vestibuled did not arrive over the West Point road until near midnight last night.

The Southern's vestibuled waited for its arrival, and consequently many hours late. No trains came in over the West Point yesterday after the accident occurred.

The train was in charge of Engineer Life Brown and Conductor Dunlap, both of this city.

The story from Opelika is as follows:

Detail of the Wreck.

"Opelika, Ala., October 7.—(Special).—The most disastrous wreck the Western Railway of Alabama has ever known occurred here near Cusseta, fourteen miles north of Opelika, this morning. Passenger train No. 25, which is a local morning train from Atlanta to Selma, in a completely ditched express and mail cars and two passenger coaches are lying on their sides having tumbled down a forty-foot embankment.

"Miraculously to state, only a few people were injured, and only one fatality was reported.

"Several were considerably shaken up and slightly hurt, but their injuries are of small moment, excepting an unknown white man, who will die from injuries received. Together with the passengers and the train, this poor mortal was at once brought to Opelika, but when seen by your correspondent could not pronounce his name. He was suffering so intensely when questioned as to his identity made a painful effort to pronounce his name. His utterances were inaudible, but as near as could be understood the name he tried so hard to speak was Alex Johnson.

"The man's very strident distress. Notwithstanding he boarded the ill-fated train at West Point, Ga., and paid his transportation to this city, outwardly he bears every appearance of being a tramp.

"All the injured are being quartered at the Cooper house, in this city, and are receiving every attention.

"The unfortunate accident occurred about 8 o'clock this morning, and the brave and presence of mind of Engineer Brown, under trying circumstances, the railroad and passengers can be thankful that the accident, horrible as it is, was not tenfold worse.

"When within one hundred yards of Osnapapa creek, over which is a long bridge, the front trucks of the mail car jumped the track.

"Instantly Engineer Brown realized what had occurred and kept the train from tumbling into the stream below the engineer pulled wide open the throttle and the train rushed onward at an increased rate of speed. Notwithstanding the mail car trucks were bumping the cross-ties, the locomotive, together with the entire train, excepting the sleeper, passed the bridge in safety.

"When the sleeper was midway the trestle, the terrible crash came, and simultaneously the entire train took a header down the embankment just across the stream. The sleeper rebounded and fell with a crash, tearing loose the car and passengers.

"Instantly pandemonium reigned supreme and the passengers for the next few minutes were engaged in a struggle to escape further danger. The mail car, which was a sleeper caught within the woodwork of the bridge, and is now suspended by the pillars of the structure, as it were, in mid air. The ill-fated train was in charge of Conductor Dunlap. Fortunately only about twenty passengers were on board, which accounts for the few casualties. Excepting Mr. Cunningham, who was among the five passengers in the sleeper, no one in his car was injured.

"The train had been cleared, passenger train No. 35, from Atlanta to New Orleans, having just passed this city. Work of removing the debris has been energetically in progress all day."

AT THE GRAND.

Archie Boyd in "The Country Squire" Tonight.

Archie Boyd, the splendid delineator of rural characters, is booked for tonight and tomorrow at the Grand. "The Country Squire," written especially for Mr. Boyd by Charles Krowe, is the name of the play. For four years Archie Boyd has played and made money out of the play. He has a better part and a truer character than any actor in which he is familiar to theatergoers.

"The Country Squire" is a picture of everyday life—a simple, plain, honest people, and its chief charm lies in the fact that its characters are true and not one bit exaggerated.

It is one of the best plays of its character on the stage. The moral tone is elevated above the plays that are ordinarily seen, there being not a scene or incident in the play that could be called vulgar or low. A charm pervades the entire play that holds one from the story, and it may truthfully be said that "The Country Squire" is one of the purest, most elevating and pleasing productions on our local stage.

Yon Yonson's Coming to the Grand.

Yon Yonson, the eminent dialect comedian, has presented his Swedish dialect comedy, "Yon Yonson," at the Grand. Few plays have attained the success that this dialect comedy has.

Although this is its first visit to Atlanta, "Yon Yonson" has been so successful that it is known among theatergoers as the pioneer, as well as the best, dialect play staged. All the scenery used in the production will be carried by the company.

A MEETING TONIGHT

The City Executive Committee to Come Together in the Council Chamber.

WILL DECIDE ABOUT THE RECOUNTS

Three Candidates Request Recounts in the Second—The Present Committee Holds on for a Year.

Tonight those candidates who believe that the election managers failed to count all the votes will be given a hearing before the city executive committee.

A special session of the committee has been called for 8 o'clock tonight in the council chamber and any complaint whatsoever will be given a patient hearing.

That is what the meeting's for, and to decide on the requests already made for a recount.

As has already been stated, three of the candidates in the city primary of last week have formally made requests of the city executive committee to have the vote in certain wards recounted. Mr. Mayes, of the fifth ward, the second ward, the second ward between himself and Mr. Sims be counted over. He states that the vote was so close, and, as some irregularities were discovered in the vote for city comptroller, there might possibly be some mistake in his instance.

It is not known what action will be taken by the committee, and what, if any, the city has already decided the result.

As Mr. Sims's majority in the entire city is not very large, Mr. Mayes's friends claim that a recount of the vote for Mr. Mayes might be discovered to overcome the apparent majority of Mr. Sims. In such a case the recount would have to be again declared the result.

Mr. McDaniel, the defeated candidate for city engineer, also asks for a recount of the vote in the fourth ward. He thinks that it is quite possible that his successful opponent, Mr. Robert M. Clayton, might have had credited to him many of the ballots cast for Mr. Thomas A. Clayton, the successful candidate for city sexton.

He thinks this similarity of names might have resulted in serious confusion without any intention on the part of the managers to alter the result in Mr. Clayton's favor.

Mr. W. D. Smith wants a recount of the vote in the fourth ward, in which ward Mr. Smith resides. It is understood that there was considerable side betting that Mr. Smith would carry his ward.

The committee will pass upon all these requests tonight, and possibly others that may come from other candidates.

It was thought last week that the executive committee would order a mass meeting to select a new executive committee. Many thought yesterday that the committee would order a mass meeting, was for that purpose. This is a mistake. It has been found that the present committee will hold on another year and another election will be necessary yet to provide for a new committee to take the place of the old.

UNDER THE WHEELS.

A Young Man Killed at Edgewood Yesterday Morning.

An early outgoing freight train on the Georgia road yesterday morning ran over and ground to pieces a young man who is said to have been stealing a ride on a flat car of the train.

The accident occurred just beyond Edgewood, about 8 o'clock yesterday morning. There seemed to be considerable doubt as to the method of the young man's death at first, but it was finally decided that he had been aboard the train and had fallen between the cars.

The young man was Walter Browne, of Social Circle, Ga., and he was on his way to his home at that place when the tragedy occurred.

The crew of the train discovered the body as soon as it was run over, and the train was stopped immediately. The men on the train got off and walked back. The young man lay beside the track, his legs severed from his body. He died almost instantly.

He was identified as Browne, and there was a great deal of mystery as to how his death occurred. At first it was thought that he had been murdered and placed on the track. Then it was suggested that he had thrown himself in front of the train, but this was quickly disproved.

It was finally decided that he had got on one of the flat cars of the train in the yards in this city, with the intention of riding to his home. He was not used to riding on freight cars, and soon after the train got under full headway and was rushing along at a good rate of speed, he lost his hold and dropped between the cars.

The train crew notified Section Superintendent Hardage, and had him to take charge of the body. Undertaker Patterson was notified and the body was brought back into the city and prepared for burial. The relatives of young Browne were notified, and at once sent instructions that his body be forwarded to them at once.

At 2:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon, the train carrying the body of young Browne, a very different homecoming from that which the young man had planned.

Walter Browne was quite well known in Atlanta. He had worked for some time in the city. He was dressed in a suit and gentile manner when killed and had started out for his home for a pleasant Sunday visit. His family are highly respected in Walton county, and the sad tragedy caused no end of regret in the vicinity of Social Circle.

A LOUISIANA CONGRESSMAN.

Says Many of the Sugar Planters Have Gone to the Republicans.

Congressman R. C. Davey, of New Orleans, was in Atlanta a short while yesterday. He had in Washington Saturday, Faulkner, chairman of the democratic congressional campaign committee.

Mr. Davey returns much encouraged at the outlook. He says Senator Faulkner predicts a democratic majority of twenty-five in the next house.

"It is true," said Mr. Davey, "that there is much discontent in Louisiana over the new sugar schedule. I should say that fifty-one-half of the sugar planters of the state have announced that they will join the republican party, but even with that discontent among the sugar men, we are not at all discouraged. I feel, will, however, be reduced in all the districts."

THE LITERARY CLUB

Of the Y. M. C. A. Will Hold an Interesting Meeting Tonight.

The Young Men's Christian Association Literary Club, which has grown to be one of the most popular literary clubs in the city, will hold its regular weekly meeting in the lecture hall of the association tonight at 8 o'clock.

The question of foreign immigration will be up for debate, and other interesting topics will be presented, which will make it one of the best meetings of the year.

Refreshments will be served, and every effort will be put forth to make the occasion an enjoyable one.

All the young men of the city are invited to attend tonight's meeting, and enjoy the club's hospitality.

A SUNDAY ROMANCE

Parental Objection Caused a Runaway Wedding Yesterday.

MR. ANDREW WEST MARRIED MISS JONES

The Groom Is the Son of Colonel A. J. West, and Is Well-Known—The Marriage Was at Stone Mountain.

That much-talked-of sprit, familiarly called Cupid, who is alleged to be blind in matters pertaining to his profession, manifested in a way peculiar to himself to bring about a romantic wedding yesterday despite decided parental objection.

While the marriage occurred at Stone Mountain, the groom is one of the best known and most popular of Atlanta's young men. His marriage, however, was a surprise to his many friends and it is understood that not even a member of his family knew that he contemplated such a sudden wedding.

The contracting parties were Mr. Andrew West, son of Colonel A. J. West, the well-known real estate agent, and Miss Leila Jones, formerly of West Point, now living at Stone Mountain.

Mr. West left the city yesterday afternoon without notifying his closest friends of his determination to marry, despite the objections that had been entered. He was with some of his friends yesterday morning and seemed to be in an exceedingly good humor. He joked with them and was even jollier than usual. None of them suspected, however, that he was about to become a Benedict.

Despite parental objection, young Mr. West, who has not long attained his majority, had determined to marry, and it was not long before his determination, the young lady being willing, had found ample reward in the happiness of a wedding. He went directly to the house of his future bride and last night the ceremony was performed by Rev. T. P. Burgess.

Mrs. Andrew West, nee Jones, is a very charming young lady, and has been a frequent visitor to this city, where she met her husband. She is a young lady of many accomplishments and quickly won his respect and then his love. She was not averse to his attentions and they decided to get married. Then parental objection intervened and the wedding was postponed, but to occur last night. The young couple will probably return to the city today.

Another wedding last night was that of Mr. C. H. Pittman and Miss Louise Killian. The ceremony was performed by Dr. Virgil Smith in the parlor of the bride's home, his residence in West End. Mr. Pittman is connected with the Atlanta Building Company. Miss Killian is a young lady of fine personality and is among Atlanta's prettiest women. She lives on Woodward avenue.

Born—Vaughan.

On next Wednesday, at 9 o'clock, Mr. C. U. Born and Miss Annie E. Vaughan will be united in marriage at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. V. Vaughan, at 1212 Peachtree street, Lawrenceville, Ga. The marriage will be a quiet affair, witnessed only by a few close friends of the contracting parties.

Mr. Born is well and favorably known to everybody in Lawrenceville. He has been for several years in the employ of the Richmond and Danville Railroad Company.

His bride is a daughter of the ladder in the railroad and worked himself up to the highest position on the Lawrenceville branch line. He has accumulated good property and is a very successful man.

Mr. Vaughan is a most beautiful and lovable young lady, possessing a highly cultured intellect and many charming virtues.

Considerable interests in being manifested in the wedding of the couple, which will be solemnized at the Church of the Immaculate Conception tomorrow night. The ceremony will certainly be beautiful as Miss Mary Fitzpatrick will preside in a handsome white robe, which will be accompanied by four dainty maidens in white satin, bearing armfuls of red roses—Misses Ruth Knott, Edna Knott, and Miss Jordan, of New York. Mr. Raphael Semmes, as maid of honor, will also be handsomely gowned in white silk. Little Miss Mary Fitzpatrick will be the bride, bearing a mighty basket of red roses. Captain J. H. Fitzpatrick, of South Carolina, uncle to the bride, will give her away, and Mr. Charles O'Neill, of New York, will officiate as best man. Messrs. Charles Solpe, James O'Neill, Raphael Semmes and Dr. Arch Avary will be as ushers.

MR. LADSON'S BIG VERDICT.

A Gifted Attorney Won a Splendid Victory Saturday.

Argument upon the exceptions to the master's report in the case of Elliott against the Richmond and Danville railroad was postponed on Saturday until next Saturday in the United States circuit court. Captain Ellis, as master, awarded the sum of $10,000 to Henry Elliott, who lost a leg by the explosion of an engine.

A jury had previously rendered a verdict for the plaintiff, but on appeal to the supreme court of the United States, a new trial was granted upon a technicality.

The finding of $10,000 by the master is probably the largest award ever made by a special master in this state.

This case has been ably and stubbornly contested by Messrs. Jackson L. Leftrich, attorneys for the company, while Mr. Ladson, who represents the plaintiff, by the rare fidelity, skill and ability displayed in Elliott's behalf, has won new laurels, and again demonstrated that in this special line of suits against corporations, for personal injuries, he without a superior at the bar in this state.

USUAL SUNDAY RUNS.

The Fire Department Was Called Out Twice During Yesterday.

There is never less than one alarm on Sunday, and yesterday there were two alarms turned in. The first one called the department to the vicinity of the Atlanta university and was turned in at a short while after 6 o'clock yesterday evening. The grass near the university was on fire, and while there was absolutely no danger to the university, the whole affair was called out. It was occupied by a picture enlarging establishment.

The second alarm was turned in a short while before 11 o'clock last night, and the fire was in a one-room building on Mitchell street, near Forsyth. The alarm was turned in from box 34, a short while after. Although the affair was in flames throughout, the department extinguished the fire in five minutes. The damage was small, though the whole affair was a loss. It was occupied by a picture enlarging establishment.

TO MEET IN ATLANTA

The Association of Funeral Directors Will Convene Here in 1895.

IT WILL BRING 300 DELEGATES

Vice President Dooley Passed Through the City Yesterday—There Is a Lady Member.

The National Convention of Funeral Directors will meet in Atlanta next October and will bring to Atlanta not less than 300 delegates.

An attempt was made by delegates to have the convention meet at Marietta, but the convention people generally wanted to meet in Atlanta. They knew all about Atlanta as a great convention city, and then there was the big exposition of next year as an additional attraction.

While the business is of a very gruesome nature the funeral directors at the convention were a jolly lot of good fellows and took in many sights besides coffin factories and embalming depots. They were well taken care of in St. Louis, and decided to come to Atlanta on the first Wednesday of next October in order that they would secure a repetition of it.

There was a lot of business to transact and a number of resolutions were introduced and adopted. Among them was one regulating the shipping of bodies. It was as follows:

"Resolved, That the association condemn the practice of undertakers when shipping bodies to the larger cities in consigning them to the care of a wholesale house, and strongly recommends that bodies be consigned to an undertaker in the city of their destination."

The officers that will preside at the meeting are President W. P. Hohenhaus, Iowa City; First Vice President F. W. Dickinson, Springfield, Mass.; Second Vice President John A. Dicks, Grapewick, Mich.; Third Vice President William D. Vevey, New Orleans; Treasurer Charles C. Miller, Cincinnati; Secretary John Sharer, Alliance.

A number of the delegates passed through here yesterday on their way home, and among them was the third vice president, Congressman E. C. Dwyer, of New Orleans. He is a genial man for his occupation, but derives much of his good fellowship from his congressional career.

The only woman embalmer was from the south, Miss Katie Smith, of Louisville, and she was the belle of the convention. She is among the few women who have taken the course of embalming, and she has been successful in her profession. In conversation with a reporter she said that she was a widow, her husband, her grandfather and father having been undertakers before her. Her father grew old and her brother's health failed, so that her father's business was about to suffer, when she determined to shoulder the work. Many young women had attempted the work, but they had failed, and she was a very successful embalmer. ## IN THE MYERS CASE

A Strange Bit of Testimony That Will Probably Be Used

TO PROVE BROWN ALLEN A MYTH

The Officers Got on an Exciting Trail for a Few Minutes Yesterday—Myers' Day in Jail

A very strange bit of testimony will be introduced at the trial of Will Myers for the murder of Forrest Crowley.

It will be introduced to prove the fallacy of the Brown Allen story and will be a picture of the front view of Brown &amp; Allen's drug store on Whitehall street. This, it is understood, will be for the purpose of showing that Myers adopted the name of his fictitious character from the sign in front of the drug store.

Brown &amp; Allen's store is directly in front of Elmsman &amp; Well's clothing store on Whitehall street, in which Myers bought a suit of clothes and a hat an hour after he returned from Westwood park, where Crowley was murdered. The theory of the prosecution is that Myers glanced casually across the street while in the store and saw the sign in front of the drug store. It impressed itself on his excited brain, and when he came to tell his story he used it for the name of his hero.

It will be remembered that two weeks ago The Constitution suggested that the name of Brown Allen might have come about in this way. The theory sounded plausible and probable enough and many believed it. It is now understood that it has been thought strong enough to be used in the prosecution of the case against Myers.

Little has been heard of Brown Allen of recent days. The detectives have practically ceased their efforts to find him, and if there is such a man no murderer ever roamed the earth freer from capture than he. Unless he gives himself up he is absolutely safe.

But Saturday night there was an exciting little ripple at police station caused by the supposed discovery of Brown Allen within three blocks of the police station. About 2 o'clock yesterday morning a telephone message was received at the police station from a disreputable resort near police headquarters. The person at the telephone stated in excited tones that Brown Allen was then at the house and could be arrested.

In great haste Captain Moss repaired to the spot. The man was quietly seated inside unassuming of the sensation he had created. Captain Moss was taken to a quiet point, where unseen, he could get a good look at the mysterious stranger. The captain's informant stated that the man had often been seen at the place with Will Myers and since Myers had told his story the man had been keeping quiet.

The captain took a good look at the fellow. He was handsome, well dressed and sportive in appearance. He had the black curling mustache, the flashy dress, the patent leather shoes and the other adjuncts of dress which Myers had so accurately described.

Although he had been incredulous at first, the appearance of the man made the captain think that there might be something in it after all, and he boldly walked in and informed the suspicious man what he wanted. The stranger smiled. Yes, he knew Will Myers. He had applied at his father's barbershop for a job, being a barber. He had frequently come about with Myers, but his name was not Brown Allen. He showed a card which removed all doubt as to his identity and the captain departed laughing.

More than fifty visitors called at the jail to see Myers yesterday. Hardly any of them were admitted. When Myers was first carried to the jail he made a request that privacy be granted him and that no one but his relatives and lawyers be admitted to his cell. His wish in this respect has been respected except where in special instances it has been broken by his own desire. He is on the first cell on the right after entering the jail and has as a cell mate Herschel McDonald. The two get along swimmingly and neither seems to realize his grave position. They keep in the best of spirits.

Yesterday the usual Sunday school services were held in the hallway of the jail. Myers, unfortunately in need of a new cell. He could not help but hear the songs and the speeches.
